

Marburg Online Summer Program 2021

» Germany and Europe in a Turbulent World – History, Politics, Society and Culture «

Today's world is characterized by crisis, tension and conflict. Germany and the European Union are not unaffected by these dynamics. Over the past years, previously unknown political antagonisms have emerged as European integration is facing great social, political and economic challenges.

In the Marburg Online Summer Program, students analyze and learn about current developments and challenges in Germany and Europe in a historical context and look at possible ways to overcome such conflicts.

Our program offers

- a choice of one academic seminar out of a variety of subject-related topics.
- a culture course on “Germany today – History, Politics and Society” including German language sessions.
- a keynote lecture by internationally renowned scholar Prof. Beatrice de Graaf of Utrecht University.
- a colorful extracurricular program, including a virtual tour of Marburg, a chance to get in contact with local students and initiatives as well as a “Market of Opportunities.”

Key Facts

- Program dates: July 14 – July 23
 - Asynchronous sessions available online starting July 1
 - Synchronous German language sessions and culture course: July 14 – July 16
 - Synchronous academic seminars and tutorials: July 19 – July 23
 - Synchronous consulting by lecturers until July 30
- Up to 6 ECTS credits can be gained throughout the program.
- Language level: all levels
- Participants from partner institutions of Philipps-Universität Marburg can enroll tuition free.
- Online registration until April 30, 2021 (with possible extension)

